LOCAL.
J. A. Drysdale, of the Brandon Marble Works, came in Tuesday night on business connected with the Edmonton branch.
At the supreme court yesterday the hearing of the case of King vs. Brown for forgery, was resumed. The prisoner was remanded for sentence until the 23rd of March.
S. R. English, of East Edmonton, arrived in Edmonton Saturday night from Manitoba with a car load of choice thoroughbred shorthorn cattle. The cattle were bought from such reliable cattle men as Geo. Rankin, of Nan, of Hamilton, T. R. Trid, of Hillview, Messrs. Thos. Spiers and Geo. Gordon, of Oak Lake. Mr. English's cattle are now all high grade and a credit to the district. They have been awarded several good prizes at Edmonton exhibitions.
Wm. C. Rowland has returned to Edmonton from Grand Prairie in which place he guided a C. N. R. engineer by the name of Wm. Burns. (Mr. Albert Tate, of Edmonton formerly of Slave Lake, who claims to know of an excellent pass through the mountains for the Landings, thence to Lesser Slave Lake then up to Danegun on the Peace river. Thence to Spirit river and on to Grand Prairie. Mr. Burns and party take pack horses sixty miles further and from there they go a couple hundred miles further north by dog-trail. There is very little snow at Grand Prairie and cattle are all in excellent condition. Mr. Rowland met a number of saddle-horse breeders for the Grand Prairie country. He thinks that it would be advisable for interested parties to go there from Edmonton and see their families follow later.

2-3 min. Red Deer on line.
A. R. Robertson left on this morning's train for the coast.
Hockey, Strathcona vs. Edmonton, to-night. The second game in the series.

EDMONTON WINS THE FIRST GAME

The first game in the Alberta challenge cup series of matches took place on Thistle rink, Edmonton, last night between the Strathcona and Edmonton hockey teams. The crowd was very small, the gate receipts amounting to only $40. There were several very evident reasons for this, the cold night, the uncertainty whether the match would take place or not, and the fact that the Strathcona team had just drawn a large number of players. The match throughout was a poor exhibition of hockey, except at occasional intervals when either team would commence to rush matters. A great deal of end to end lifting was indulged in. Both teams revealed the fact that they were out of practice. Altogether the match was not nearly so thoroughly contested as others played between the two teams here the season.

The teams lined up as follows:
 Edmonton: Goodridge, goal; McKernan, Jory, point; May, cover point; Sibald, rover; R. Hinch, forward; McLeod, forward; Ritchie, forward; Robertson, forward.
 Strathcona: Goodridge, goal; McKernan, Jory, point; May, cover point; Sibald, rover; R. Hinch, forward; McLeod, forward; Ritchie, forward; Robertson, forward.

The game commenced at 8:15 and the Strathcona team started off with a rush. The play gradually eased up and continued with alternate success to each side. Finally after five minutes play Strathcona steadily forced the puck down the ice. Then followed an exciting mix-up immediately in front of Edmonton's goal, and Ritchie securing the puck, lifted it into the net, scoring the first for Strathcona. Time five minutes.

Edmonton started off determined to score and were several times on the point of doing so only to be blocked by McKernan or Goodridge. Some suspicious checking was indulged in and May and Jory were warned by the referee. May secured the puck at centre ice and lifted a hot shot on goal which found the net, greatly to the delight of Edmonton's supporters. Time six minutes.

Strathcona took the game in hand again and pressed Edmonton's goal. Edmonton's crack defence saves their goal time after time and the puck is returned to Strathcona. McKernan, passing to Bellamy who shoots hard and scores number two for Edmonton in four minutes.

The game warms up considerably heavy and hard checking being indulged in. The game goes on with varying success but McKernan scores and passes to Robertson who forwards the puck to Sibald. Sibald carries it along and scores number three for Edmonton. Time ten minutes.

Strathcona starts off aggressive and rushes repeatedly only to be blocked by the Edmonton defence. McKernan and McLeod rush and McKernan receives the puck to Sibald. Sibald carries it along and scores number three for Edmonton. Time ten minutes.

From the draw off Bellamy scores and passes to McKernan who passes to Sibald. Sibald shoots and scores number four for Edmonton. Time half a minute.

The game commences again much faster with McKernan passing Strathcona's goal. McKernan scores his goal for the visitors repeatedly as he shoots the puck on him. But Ed. McKernan is out to win and Sibald scores the puck on a nice pass from Bellamy and scores number five for Edmonton. Time six minutes.

Shortly after the game has commenced again half time is up. The play has lagged throughout the evening and there is a listlessness manifested very distinct to the usual game between Strathcona and Edmonton.

After half time the game gets much faster. McKernan passes Strathcona's goal with McKernan starting. End to end lifting follows. But McKernan and McKernan scores. McKernan scores the puck to McKernan who scores number six for Edmonton. Time half a minute.

After play commences May is put on the bench for one minute for tripping. McKernan scores and passes to McKernan who returns the puck to McKernan who scores and scores number five for Strathcona. Both teams are now even in the score.

The players all get down to earnest work and after alternate rushes McKernan gains scores and score number six for Strathcona.

The play continues and again May is put on the bench from centre ice and scores number six for Edmonton. The scores are now even again and everybody watches with the closest interest. May makes some fast rushes but time is called. Both teams agree to play five minutes each way until the tie is broken. In the first five minutes no score is made, both goal keepers, starting. Ritchie takes a cram in his leg and play is delayed a few minutes. Another five minutes is up.

They change ends and again go at it. Robertson scores, rushes and passes in front of Strathcona goal to McKernan who scores the deciding game for Edmonton at which great enthusiasm prevails.

THE PLAY

Harold Nelson as Shylock, drew another full house last night, notwithstanding the strong counter attraction of a hockey match between Edmonton and Strathcona at the Thistle rink. But Edmonton is getting to be quite a place and there are people enough to fill both the opera house and the hockey rink, if both have something good to offer. Mr. Nelson's many admirers were not disappointed in his portrayal of the fiercest passions of the human heart. Hate, greed, and unjust revenge were all pictured in their worst and fiercest forms; brought out all the more strongly by contrast with the harmless character of the story upon which they were hung. And again, the contrast from the ironical, dictatorial usurer to the heartbroken father, disappointed of revenge, robbed of his wealth, his religion snuffed at and life itself at the mercy of those he hated most was quick, terrible, and most affecting.

Mention of Shylock would not be complete without mention of Portia, the part taken by Miss Cornyn. Her only fault—and it may well be accounted a virtue not a fault—was that she was too much the rich heiress and devoted sweetheart, to be the ideal man of law who brings out of the statutes what no one else knew was in them. But that is her misfortune by nature, not her fault by art. The male portion of her audience, vote her strictly right, while the female portion will certainly admit that her red gown became her very well and that her hat was on straight.

In the specialties between acts Miss Maud Proctor's singing was received with every mark of approval, and it was fully deserved. Her voice is clear, sweet and sufficiently strong, her songs are new and in the best of taste. Mr. Yule was as good as ever and possibly a little better. His fund of fun seems to be inexhaustible.

A somewhat unlooked for specialty was a sharp cutting down which Mr. Nelson gave certain back benches who in the exercise of their supposed privilege as free citizens had seen fit to disturb actors and audience at important points in the play. In taking the stand he did Mr. Nelson conferred a favor on all who attend, with a desire to enjoy the play and there are a very large majority of the whole number. Her words and point of view showed the man behind the actor, and the man as good as the actor.

The play to-night is Romeo and Juliet.
